

NEXT JUDGE FOR DISTRICT BENCH

Indiana Politicians Hesitate to Pick the Successor of John H. Baker.

DATE OF THE APPOINTMENT

The President Will Probably Send Name to the Senate Immediately After Congress Convenes.

(By James P. Hornaday, Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, November 12.—Presumably the name of the new judge for the United States District Court of Indiana will be sent to the Senate the first or second day of the session. The President may make the appointment immediately on his return from the South, but with the opening of Congress so near at hand he is likely to wait.
After the experience at the time Francis E. Baker was appointed circuit judge, Indiana here are not willing to make any predictions. On the face of things it appears that R. O. Hawkins will be appointed, but there has not been the slightest intimation from the White House that the President has him in mind.
Senator Beveridge will stay out of it. Senator Fairbanks is understood to be for Hawkins, and Representative Overstreet and Harry S. New are for him.
In view of the fact that the President has said on several occasions that, in appointing United States judges, he will not be guided by recommendations of politicians, there is speculation as to whether the Senator, the Congressman and other representatives of the party will make recommendations. When the circuit judgeship was under consideration, the President said he would not appoint Hawkins to that place, because he was too old. No one knows whether he will take the same stand with reference to the district judgeship.
A year ago it was a toss-up as to whether Francis E. Baker or C. C. Shirkley, of Kokomo, should be appointed circuit judge. The President indicated on more than one occasion that he thought well of the Kokomo man.
The Postoffice Department wants an appropriation of $12,500 for rural mail delivery for the fiscal year beginning next July. If it gets it, increased service for Indiana.
Indiana will be the next presidential election. Illinois, Iowa and Ohio are the only States that now lead Indiana in the number of rural routes in operation.
Nine hundred and sixteen routes are now operated in the State and 426 petitions for routes are pending. Seventy-seven applications have been favorably reported and these routes will be established before the end of the calendar year. It is said at the department that there is only one thing that will stand in the way of universal rural delivery in Indiana, and that is bad roads. Within the last five years 130 applications from the State have been rejected, and most of them were turned down because of bad roads. It is announced that a route in operation will be discontinued if the farmers served do not see to it that the roads the carrier must travel are kept in good repair. Periodical inspections are made of all routes in order to ascertain what roads need repairs, so that steps may be taken to have road supervisors or other authorities make the necessary improvements or repairs.
The department realizes that the roads in Indiana are in a deplorable condition. It is largely useless to enforce compliance with requests of this kind, but it does have power to withdraw the service at any time, if supervisors do not act. Mr. McHenry says that so anxious are some counties in Indiana to receive the increased mail facilities that counties have agreed in advance to see to it that all roads to be used by carriers are graded. During the last year 6,000 letters and packages were registered as rural mail in isolated farming communities in Indiana.

A BREAK IN THE PRICES OF HOGS

Prices Have Been Dropping So Steadily that the Situation Disheartens Raisers.

DISCOURAGED STOCK RAISERS

The General Sentiment is that Prices Are Still Very High Compared with Last Year's.

Hogs broke 20c at the Indianapolis stockyards today. This was a break of $1.00 from the high point of last month. The high price to-day was $2.25.
Indiana stock raisers are watching Christmas spending money melt away. Prices of hogs have been dropping so steadily lately that the situation is disheartening to them. It is a disconsolate-looking crowd that leaves the Exchange Building at the stockyards every afternoon.
There has not been a sign of a check to the downward trend since the opening of the present week. Along about the middle of August prices broke about $1.00, but the reaction was quick, the loss soon being regained.
Reaction Did Not Come.
Many stock raisers expected a similar course when the present decline set in, but they are now beginning to believe that the times of extreme high prices are past as far as this year is concerned.
As a result they are rushing their stuff to market as soon as possible, and the heavier receipts assist in bearing prices.
While the raisers have fared badly, the stock shippers have fared worse. It has been impossible for them to keep up with the break. They will take a farmer's shipment, at what looks like a safe figure, but before they can rush it to market, prices have broken sharply and his shipping margin is gone. A large part of the supply in Indianapolis has sold on the market at prices below country figures.
A general sentiment is that hogs are still very high. They are now 50c higher than at this time last year.
Cattle are also decreasing in values. They are now from $1.50 to $2.00 per hundred lower than early in the fall.

THEIR ROMANCE IS CLOSED.

Aged Joseph Fetrow Died Soon After Remarrying His Divorced Wife.

The death of Joseph Fetrow yesterday afternoon, at 806 North Court, added the last chapter to a little romance of marriage, separation and reconciliation at the eleventh hour.
Joseph Fetrow married his wife, Cornelia, thirty-seven years ago, and lived happily in this city with his wife and four children. In 1877 he deserted his family and left the city. He was not heard from until several years later, when he returned and endeavored to obtain the custody of his children.
Mrs. Fetrow is a Lutheran and is opposed to the granting of divorces. She had never asked for legal separation from her husband.
Finding that he was about to take the children from her, she took them into the courts. She received a divorce and the children. Fetrow again left the city.
About a year ago he returned to Indianapolis a paralytic. He went to the home of his wife and asked for a reconciliation. Both the deserted wife and the neglected children were willing to take him in and provide him with a home in his hour of affliction.
It was decided that the old people should be married. The ceremony was held at the home of the bride. Fetrow was married to Cornelia Fetrow yesterday afternoon and gradually grew weaker until yesterday afternoon, when he suffered another stroke of the heart and died in the arms of his faithful wife.

JOHNSON IS IN INDIANA.

Says He is Making Collections—Can be Seen When Wanted.

(Special to The Indianapolis News.)
ANDERSON, Ind., November 12.—Manson U. Johnson is in the western part of the State. Last night he telephoned from Terre Haute, Ind., to read that he was mysteriously missing. Johnson said he was surprised. He said he would return at once if the court wanted him. The court is not calling for him yet, however. Johnson said he would be in Terre Haute to-day in the afternoon, and would be back in the city by the end of the week.
"I am spending all my time," Johnson said, "looking after collections over the State and am helping to get my affairs in shape."
The Anderson Trust Company is the trustee of Johnson's affairs. Manager Heritage, of the trust company, says: "Up to this time we have collected about $700 on the alleged assets of Johnson, which he represented would amount to $35,000. We do not know when we will call a meeting of creditors."

WILLIAM MOFFITT AS A GRAVEROBBER

Another White Man Charged with Being the Leader of a Gang of White Ghoul.

IDENTIFIED BY CANTRELL

Negro Graverobbers Have Pointed Out More Graves Which They Say They Robbed.

William Moffitt, an alleged graverobber, was arrested at his home, at 918 Roach street, North Indianapolis, by detectives Manning and Asch at 1:40 o'clock this morning. Moffitt was implicated by Rufus Cantrell, Sam Martin and John McIndree.
He is white, about fifty-five years old and has a family. It is said he has been in the graverobbing business for nearly a quarter of a century. The detectives say that he was employed as a janitor in the Medical College of Indiana a few years ago.
Asch and Manning have been getting evidence against Moffitt for several days. They have had his name on their list since the investigation against the ghoul was begun.
When Moffitt was awakened at his home last night he told the detectives that he expected a visit from them.
"Why did you expect us?" asked Asch.
"O I guess you think I am mixed up in this graverobbing deal," replied Moffitt.
"But I'm not. I understood you were looking for me."
Denied His Guilt.
Moffitt refused to talk on his way to the police station, and denied that he knew Cantrell and the other ghoul.
The detectives took him over to the jail and awakened Cantrell. The negro peered through the bars in the dim light and said:
"Hello, Billy, where'd ye get the whiskeys?"
Moffitt replied that he had worn whiskeys for twenty-five years.
"You're a liar," said Cantrell; "you didn't have whiskeys two months ago."
The detectives interposed and said they could easily find out about the whiskeys, and Moffitt said: "What's the difference. I've had whiskeys for about six weeks."
He still denied that he knew Cantrell, and the negro laughed and recalled several graverobbing expeditions that he said Moffitt had taken part in.
"He's the king of the white ghoul," and he can prove it," Cantrell said.
Martin was then called from his cell and asked if he knew the man with the detectives.
Identified by Martin.
"Why, it's Moffitt. I wouldn't have known him in those whiskeys."
Moffitt still denied that he knew either Cantrell or Martin.
"Now, look here, Moffitt," Cantrell said, "I can prove right here that I know you. What kind of a scar have you on your back?"
Moffitt replied sullenly that he did not have a scar on his back. A heated argument between them arose, and Cantrell declared that Moffitt was about the ghoul while robbing a grave in the insane hospital cemetery by a night watchman about four years ago.
"There's this much about it, Moffitt," Asch said, "I'm going to strip you and see if you were shot."
Admitted that He Knew Cantrell.
Moffitt realized then that he was in a tight place and he admitted that there was a bullet wound in his back. He denied, however, that he was robbing a grave when he was shot. Before leaving the jail Moffitt admitted that he knew the negroes, but denied again that he ever robbed graves with them. He said Albert Harlow is employed by Newman & Co., commission dealers in South Delaware street.
When asked about the bullet wound on Moffitt's back, Cantrell said he and Moffitt

JOHN MCGREGOR SAYS HE IS OUT OF THE WAY.

The Scot Says He Will Not Again Try for the Nomination for Mayor.

John McGregor announced that he would not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor next spring. He gave Mayor Bookwala a close race for the nomination last spring and it has been the supposition of his friends that he would run again.
McGregor says he appreciates the honor of his re-election to the Board of County Commissioners, and that he is satisfied. It is understood that McGregor does not believe it is possible, at least, without spending a small fortune, to overcome the machine Mayor Bookwala has strengthened during his regime in the mayor's office.
He would not consent to become an independent candidate, he says, because that would mean a division in the Republican ranks that would probably result in the election of a Democrat.
Up to date this leaves the field for the Republican nomination clear to Bookwala, but there is a general feeling that the Martinides will bring out a candidate against him for the nomination.

A BABY MISTREATED.

Officer of Board of Children's Guardians Investigating Strange Case.

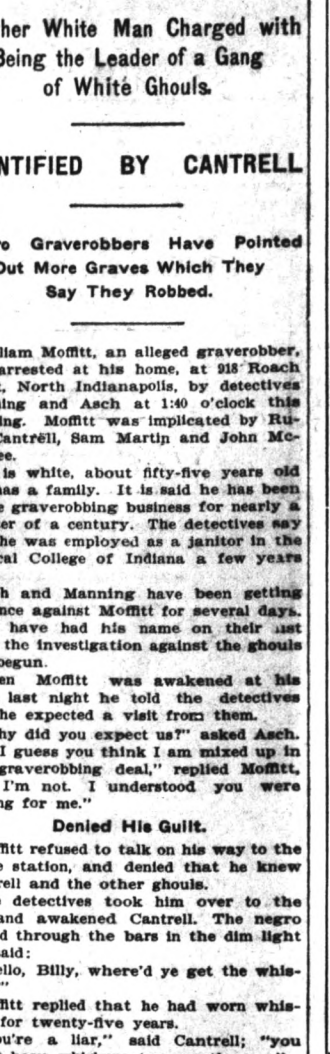

W. A. Joyce, Board of Children's Guardians, to-day was called to investigate a peculiar case to-day. A partial investigation showed that Mrs. Virgil Day, a young woman living with her husband, in Rhode Island street, gave away her eight-month-old baby without ever inquiring the name of the person that received the infant. The baby was finally located in the home of Mrs. Albert Harlow, who lives in a block at 566 West Walnut street.
Joyce and the police are now looking for Virgil Day, who, they say, beat and mistreated the child. Both Day and his wife disappeared from their home. Joyce and the neighbors in the vicinity of the Harlow home say the infant is now in good hands, and is being well cared for. Albert Harlow is employed by Newman & Co., commission dealers in South Delaware street.
Mrs. Harlow said a woman came to her home and told her of the Day infant, and also of the alleged bad treatment to-day. The baby had been subjected. Mrs. Harlow said she hunted up the Day home to investigate, and on entering the place found the woman that had told her of the matter.
Before she could make many inquiries, Mrs. Day said, according to the statement of Mrs. Harlow:
"If you want this baby you can have it."
She handed the infant to Mrs. Harlow and bade her good-day.
A little one was bruised about the face and one ear was black from a fall. The mother of the child told Joyce that the infant was picked up by the ear by its father and thrown under the bed of a child. Joyce said he would care for Day would be arrested if he can be found.

THE TOWN CRYER: "CLOSE UP! CLOSE UP!"

The Police Department Heralds Its New Crusade—and Makes No Arrest.

RAPID MOVEMENTS ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Bears and Bulls Fought a Fierce Battle, with Neither Victorious.

FOURTH DAY OF THE SCARE

Liquidations Continued and Banks Were Not Entirely Satisfied with Their Collateral.

(Special to The Indianapolis News.)
NEW YORK, November 12.—Centrifugal and centrifugal forces struggled for supremacy to-day on the Stock Exchange, and the result was a market of startling changes and irregular movements. The bears and bulls fought hard battles about almost every post on the floor, and when the close came neither side led won the victory.
It was the fourth day of the scare, and still liquidation was continued. Banks were not entirely satisfied with part of their collateral as a result of the sharp declines since Saturday, and there was no inconsiderable calling of loans. Added to this was the demand by brokers for additional margins, and the hurried uncovering of stop-loss orders.
Opening Prices Lower.
Opening prices were lower, one to three points, and great blocks of all stocks were poured into the arena from the start. The banks were largely in position to determine the course of speculation, and they regarded the sharp decline of the past few days with favor.
On the other hand large bulls and pools have been carrying for many months. The continued declines meant millions of dollars in losses, and they fought with every force their immense resources afforded, any further break.
Reports were circulated in quick succession of disunion among the giant operators in the market. A hunting party had been organized to go gunning for the Moores, another for Gates and the Stand, and Oil crowd were out on a general warpath which threatened to lead into Morgan's camp. There were all rumors following each other in quick succession. Each contributed to the uncertainty.
Shorts Hurried to Cover.
On the decline shorts, who had been attracted by the violence of the reaction, hurried to cover, fearing just as sharp an upturn and precipitating the condition they feared, for with the crush of covering orders the prices suddenly jumped. Back and forth the prices were crowded and back and forth turned the sweep of the Exchange sentiment.
At the office of Harris, Gates & Co. the following was given out:
"The situation is a perplexing one. The country is prosperous and disturbing features are disappearing. The outlook is for a continuance of good times, yet largely on account of this overwhelming general prosperity the speculative markets are forced to rest and recession."
James R. Keene says: "So far as railroads are concerned there never was ahead of them such a large volume of business, and the most influential and sagacious railroad presidents and managers are unanimously predicting larger net earnings for a year to come than railroads have ever enjoyed before. Demands of wage earners on the roads are being carefully considered, and there is a unanimity of opinion that whatever is just and proper will be conceded."
"The exports of manufactures, wheat,

A GIRL ARRESTED.

She is Accused of Breaking into a House and Stealing Jewelry.

Ruby Dumont, a nice-looking seventeen-year-old girl, living with her mother at 614 West Michigan street, was arrested to-day by detectives Colbert and Hauser on the charge of housebreaking. The girl is suspected of robbing the home of Robert Campbell, 32 Goodwin avenue. The detectives say she went to the house during the afternoon, while the members of the family were absent, and ransacked the place.
She took a diamond brooch, a purse containing money and a quantity of jewelry, besides some ribbons, laces and other articles. The detectives found the girl wearing the brooch. At the police station the mother said she would go home and get the other articles.

He dealt with many important questions of the hour. Delegates from twenty-six States are attending the convention, which will be in session several days.
EVANSVILLE NEXT.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., November 12.—Evansville, Ind., gets the next meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association. The association adjourned to-day after a most successful meeting. Resolutions were adopted favoring immediate action on the part of Congress to bring the Ohio river to a nine-foot stage by the construction of locks and dams. The old officers were re-elected.

TOWARD LAND OF BEAR AND PANTHER

Roosevelt is Headed for Mississippi, Where He Hopes to Bag Some Big Game.

TO CAMP NEAR RAILROAD

Pack of Hounds Waiting to Score Up Old Bruin—Cheers for the President Along the Way.

PITTSBURGH, November 12.—President Roosevelt passed through Pittsburgh this morning en route to a point in Mississippi, where he has arranged to spend several days hunting black bear, as the guest of President Fish, of the Illinois Central railroad. He is traveling on a special train of three Pullman cars, accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou and his physician, Dr. G. A. Long, of the navy. He will go direct to Memphis, Tenn., without stops, passing through Columbus and Cincinnati, over the Pennsylvania lines.
From Cincinnati and Louisville the train will run over the Louisville & Nashville, and there it will be shifted to the tracks of the Illinois Central.
He will reach Memphis to-morrow morning, where he will be joined by President Fish, and the journey to Mississippi will be made over the Yazoo and Mississippi river. The exact destination of the President has been kept secret. Hunting with a gallery is not to the taste of a sportsman like President Roosevelt, and it was for that reason only that he vetoed the hunt to which Governor Longino invited him.
A camp has already been prepared in northern Mississippi, a few miles from the line of the railroad, and it is understood one of the best packs of hounds in the South is waiting to be put on the trail of old bruin upon the President's arrival.
And Panthers, Too.
Bears are reported to be plentiful and there are also said to be some panthers in the vicinity, so that the President is looking forward to the sport with much pleasure.
The train will be side-tracked at the nearest point to the camp, and remain there until the President's return to Memphis, next Wednesday. The President arose early this morning and was engaged on his correspondence almost all day.
During the short stop at Pittsburgh to change engines, the President got out of his car and paced up and down the platform.
Waved Them Back.
A large crowd had gathered. After saying their good-byes with a pleasant morning, the President stepped off the platform and took a brisk walk down the tracks, stopping occasionally to speak to a "yard" switchman or an engineer in his cab on a siding.
The crowd was amazed at this display of unconventionality. The secret service men with the train started to follow the President, but he waved them back. The police, however, took care to keep the crowd back of the end of the train, so the President had a clear field for his constitutional.
The train left at 10:40 for the West, and as it pulled out the crowd cheered heartily. The President's train was on the back platform and waved good-by.
C. B. Watts, general superintendent of transportation of the Pennsylvania lines, and Wm. Bradley, superintendent of railroad police, accompanied the President to Cincinnati.

Twenty-seven companies are represented in the deal, two plants, located at Evansville and New Albany, Ind., having been added to the original list. According to the promoters, the company will control 50 per cent of the production of the United States and Canada of axes, adzes, hatchets, hammers, picks, mattocks, scythes, hickory handles and similar products, and grindstone quarries, and will manufacture sufficient crucible and open hearth stone steel for the various plants.
Not in the Tool Trust.
(Special to The Indianapolis News.)
EVANSVILLE, Ind., November 12.—The story that the Evansville tool-trust is to become a part of the new trust is denied. The Evansville tool-trust has declined to consider the proposition. They are willing to sell outright, however, but the proposed trust does not want to make the purchase.
CLERICAL ERRORS IN VOTE.
They Change the Total Number of Ballots for State Secretary Slightly.
Clerical errors have been discovered in the vote for Secretary of State published by the State Board of Elections. The total vote from 10,971 to 10,336. The official returns from Clay county, which the Secretary of State asked the county clerk to send to-day, may still change the result slightly. The total vote for Schoenberger in Montgomery county is 2,764, instead of 2,664. His total vote in Posey county is 2,751, instead of 2,561.
There were no Socialist or Socialist Labor votes in Newton county, which was credited with 28 Socialist, and 1 Socialist labor votes. The official returns from Vigo showed that the total Socialist vote for Secretary of State was 23, instead of 22. Adding the figures that should be increased, the total is 39. Deducting the 22 votes for the Socialist vote published yesterday should be increased 17.
